ELKS WELCOME HOME NICHOLSON, NATIONAL RULER

James R. Nicholson, the Boston man who was recently elected to the highest Elks' office in the land at the Los Angeles convention, was welcomed home today by the Boston Lodge of Elks, by the Massachusetts Association of Elks—which was organized through his efforts—by Mayor Curley, by 600 other Brother Elks and by some 3000 or so interested spectators at the South station. There was a parade from the Boston Lodge building on Somerset street to the station and back, with a band, plenty of cheering and as much handshaking as the new Grand Exalted Ruler could stand.

Delegates from the Massachusetts Association of Elks, who came to Boston for the reception to the Grand Exalted Ruler, met at the Boston Lodge building and, with members of Boston Lodge, paraded to the station 500 strong. They were in charge of James H. Walsh, Grand Esquire of the Massachusetts Association, and of Exalted Ruler Jeremiah Hurley of Boston Lodge.

Mr Nicholson and his party arrived on the Chicago express at 11:45. As he descended from the car steps he was greeted by Mayor Curley, a Brothers of Boston Lodge lined the Esquire Walsh of the association, Brothers of Boston Lodge lined the platform, waving purple banners lettered in white

"B. P. O. E. WELCOME"

ANARCHY TO END IN 60 DAYS

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Aug. 3.—Private Meddaire of Troop C, Twelfth United States Cavalry, was killed, Private Curtis was wounded and Deputy Sheriff Monahan had an ear shot off in a fight between American regulars and Texas Rangers and a strong body of Mexican bandits, believed to be Carranista soldiers, on Schriver Ranch, near San Benito, Texas, early today. The bandits were driven from their shelter today, leaving twelve dead behind. A battle is now raging in the brush and reinforcement fear the United States forces are being rushed to the scene. An appeal has been sent to Washington for more troops.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Restoration of a constitutional government in Mexico within sixty days has been determined upon by President Wilson. That is the real reason for the conference arranged for Thursday afternoon between the diplomatic representatives of the Latin-American powers and Secretary of State Lansing.

It was learned this afternoon that the United States had arranged a tentative plan which will be discussed at this conference and which, if accepted, may end the troubles of Mexico.

According to the best advices obtainable the chief proposition will be the immediate recognition of a temporary provisional president who will not be Carranza, Villa or Zapata. He is to be a man who was a member of Madero's cabinet in order that legitimate succession can be provided for, in as much as it is recognized that Huerta's assumption of power never was legal.

As it was conceded that no man who served under Madero could se-

Kissed Dorothy; 'Help,' She Cried; '$10' Says Judge

Lacy Magoun, thirty-eight, said to live at No. 1042 Main street, Brockton, was fined $10 in the Abington Court today by Judge Pratt for kissing Dorothy Lees, an eleven-year-old girl of South Hanover.

According to the story told by the girl in court today, last week she visited Mayflower Grove in Bryantville, Magoun, she said, approached her and seizing her in his arms kissed her. She called a policeman who placed Magoun under arrest.

Poincaire War Cross for Albert

By the International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—President Poincaire visited the West Flanders front on Monday, and decorated King Albert of the Belgians with a French war cross, it was announced by the War Office today. The occasion was the anniversary of the German ultimatum to Belgium.

Guest List 200 for Miss Page's Wedding

By International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Less than 200 guests will be present at the marriage of Miss Katherine Page, daughter of the United States Ambassador, and Charles G. Loring of Boston tomorrow. Only white flowers will be used. The bride will walk through a bower of flowers to the altar.

Croker Gives Turf Money to Red Cross

DUBLIN, Aug. 3.—Richard Croker, former "Boss" of New York, announced today he would contribute all his turf earnings to the British Red Cross.

2 MEN HURT AT NAVY YARD

Two men were injured by the explosion of an acetyline tank in the machine shop at the Charlestown Navy Yard today.

The injured men are:

Curley W. Smith, supervisor of tools, of No. 417 Vollver street, Canton, injured in neck by piece of flying metal.

John Herlihy, forty-three, machinist, of No. 43 Union Park street, South End, eyes and face injured by flying metal.

The explosion occurred in building No. 105. Other machinists had narrow escapes. The report sounded like a fifteen-inch gun and was heard for blocks. It startled the attaches of the navy yard.

Smith and Herlihy were repairing an acetyline tank. Herlihy held an acetyline torch near the crack in the tank when the flame ignited gas in the tank, which burst into fragments.

Men ran from the rain of metal. The windows were smashed. The machine shop was not badly damaged.

First aid was given by Dr. M. H. Ryan, the yard surgeon, and they were hurried to the Relief Hospital.

Wounded Germans Indicate Big Battle

By International News Service.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 3.—A continuous stream of wounded German soldiers is passing through Courtrai from the West Flanders front, indicating that another battle has developed there. The sound of heavy artillery fire has been audible from the direction of Ypres for seventy-two hours.

FUGITIVE IS FOUND IN HIDING

Dominico Raia, landlord at No. 23 Clark street, North End, who shot and killed his second-floor tenant, Giuseppi Varano, in a quarrel over a $20 rent bill, early today, was captured by the police at 1 p. m. in a room in a vacant top floor tenement at No. 25 Culrk street, where he had hidden.

After the shooting Raia ran upstairs and dodged into the doorway at No. 25 without being noticed. The police figured he was somewhere in the block. Sergeant McDevitt and a squad of men surrounded the block and guarded all exists and the roof. Then they made a systematic search of every room in it.

Thus they unearthed Raia. The man was weak from fright and from the stifling heat of the little room, where he had locked door and windows. He made no resistance.

Raia will be arraigned tomorrow on a murder charge. The police say Varano, angered because Raia had once refused to go in his bond, ran up a 20 rent bill, then started today to move without paying.

When Raia came in a quarrel followed in which Raia fired three bullets into Varano's lungs. The tenant died on the way to the Relief Hospital.

Killed by Fall from Tree.

An unknown Italian boy of ten or twelve, who was found unconscious on Watertown street, Watertown, today, died at the hospital as the result of a thirty-foot fall from a tree.

Strassburg Shelled by French Aviators

By International News Service.

GENEVA, Aug. 3.—A squadron of French aeroplanes attacked Strassburg, the capital of Lower Alsace, today, and dropped twenty-five bombs. Extensive damages is believed to have been done. Strassburg is an important link in the line of Rhine defenses, and is one of the most strongly fortified German cities in the western part of the empire.

GREAT GERMAN GUNS BOMBARDING WARSAW

Field Marshal von Mackensen's army, southeast of Warsaw, has also made further progress, and now the gap in the semi-circle around Warsaw is only 100 miles long at its narrowest point east of the city.

While the wings of the Austro-German forces are rolling steadily closer, the army of Field Marshal von Hindenburg is standing firm in front of the city and the Russian forts are being shelled by the mightiest howitzers of the Teutonic forces, fifteen and seventeen-inch shells are crashing into the forts of Warsaw and Novo Georgievsk.

Although there is no report of any advance by the Austro-German forces west of Warsaw on the line stretching west of Novo Georgievsk and past Blonie and Gora Kalwary, German military experts are not pessimistic. They declare it is part of the masterly strategy of Field Marshal von Hindenburg to hold his line without making any extraordinary efforts to advance so that the Russian army at Warsaw might not be pushed eastward beyond the Austro-German wings that are trying to encircle it behind Warsaw.

It is the task of Von Hindenburg to prevent the Russians from bending the Austro-German line west of Warsaw, while General von Buelow and Field Marshal Mackensen push northward each other, cutting the Russian lines of communication and cooping up the Russians in a vast circle of steel.

RUSSIANS ADMIT INABILITY TO STOP GERMAN ADVANCE

PETROGRAD, Aug. 3.—With sanguinary fighting in progress north, east and southeast of Warsaw, where the Teutonic allies are struggling to draw closer the horns of the semi-circle which now stretches around the city, the Austro-German forces in front of the Polish capital have begun to bombard the Russian forts with their heaviest guns.

That Field Marshal von Hindenburg will not consent to the enormous losses that would result from an attempt to carry the forts by storm is shown by the great number of howitzers of the biggest calibre which are being placed in position to reduce the forts of Warsaw and Novo Georgievsk.

Warsaw is undergoing violent attacks from the air. On Sunday a fleet of German aeroplanes dropped more than twenty bombs upon the city, killing seven persons and wounding fourteen.

Two of the craft were hit by the Russian high-angle guns which fired 100 shells at the aerial invaders.

In the Mitau-Bausk district the German forces under General von Buelow are making the most terrific efforts against the Russian line, using cavalry forces on a scale hitherto unheard of in warfare.

All along the battle front in Poland, except at the extreme ends, the Germans and Austrians are using enormous numbers of guns to batter their way through the Russian lines.

At a single point they concentrated 150 cannon with which they swept the Russian trenches with a hurricane of shot and shell that could not be withstood. The ammunition resources of the Teutons seem inexhaustible. In the sector of Wyszkow, thirty miles northeast of Warsaw, where the Austro-German forces of General von Gallwitz are locked with the Russians, the Russians were more than holding their own when artillery reinforcements arrived and the Germans turned the day with their guns.

The situation east of the Vistula and south of Warsaw is becoming critical. The tenacity and courage of the Russians could not withstand the superior artillery and munition supplies of the Germans. The fortress of Ivangorod is in danger and, further to the east, between the Wieprz and Bug Rivers, the Russians, though holding strong positions, are menaced through cutting of railway lines by the enemy.

On the right bank of the Narew River, south of Ostrolenka, bloody fighting is in progress. It is there that the Austro-German forces are making their supreme effort to sever the railway link between Warsaw and Petrograd.

The Russians defending the position have been ordered to die fighting, but not to retreat.

BRITAIN MAY ASK ARBITRATION ON OCEAN RIGHTS

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The Wilson administration will refuse to accept the British defence of its blockade methods and its order-in-council. Already Secretary of State Lansing is bringing up to date the protest that is to go forward within a few days, insisting on the right of American merchants to carry on a free and uninterrupted trade with neutral nations.

This protest will be completed this week so that it can be considered by President Wilson and the Cabinet when the executive returns to this city, probably one week from today.

Meanwhile, it is understood at the State Department that Germany will withhold her rejoinder to President Wilson's latest note until the American position toward the "British starvation blockade" is defined.

Officials already see a strong prospect of all the questions at issue between this country and England being diverted to a court of arbitration.

England and the United States are parties to one of the Bryan treaties and if England should point-blank refuse to make any concessions to this government following the sending of the new note she will be able, in the event that President Wilson should threaten any sharp action such as an interruption of diplomatic relations, to demand that all of the questions in dispute be sent to arbitration.

In this respect at least, officials here declare, England has the whip hand on the United States at the present time.

Meanwhile the sentiment for Congressional action to force England's hand is declared to be increasing. Hundreds of letters are pouring in on the administration, and the protests of shippers and importers are growing more insistent day by day.

Southern Congressmen are waxing indignant as the time approaches for the marketing of another cotton crop and are insisting that the British blockade is now the most important thing before the administration.

Adding to the general discontent here and the talk of forcing England's hand is the unsuccessful attempt made to get the release of cargoes now held at Rotterdam and other points. The efforts of the department have been informal.

MALDEN MAN KILLED AS IBERIAN TRIED TO ESCAPE

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—"There now is no doubt that the Iberian attempted to escape."

This dispatch was received today by the State Department from Consul Frost at Queenstown.

He also reported that Martin Sheridan, among those killed by the German submarine's shells, lived in Malden, Mass.

Sheridan was an Englishman, but had taken out first American naturalization papers.

Fear Iberian Victim Is a Brockton Man

BROCKTON, Aug. 3.—That the Patrick Walsh, forty, who perished in the torpedoing of the steamship Iberian, was her brother, is the belief expressed here by Mrs. George B. Eldridge. Three brothers, John, David and Edward J., enlisted in Irish ferns. Mrs. Eldridge said Patrick Walsh left her home June 1, saying he would try to find work on some boat. Walsh has a wife and six children in Hudson.

CONFERENCE ON MEXICO PLAN THURSDAY

cure the support of the elements necessary to make its administration a success, it is expected that the A B C representatives in the conference will suggest that the candidate first selected be a figurehead pure and simple. He will simply be proclaimed President if the program can be arranged, and will then name the staff agreed on for the endorsement of the United States and the South American powers as minister of foreign affairs.

Under the Mexican constitution there will be no vice-president. The Minister of Foreign Affairs succeeds to the presidency when it is vacant, and it will become vacant almost immediately if the plans that it is hoped to perfect are carried out.

Secretary Lansing stated today that the conference was called on the invitation of the United States. President Wilson has had before him for two weeks the plan suggested by Duval West, who flatly declared against recognition of any of the factions, and the plan of Leon Canova, chief of the newly organized division of Mexican affairs which leaned toward recognition of Carranza. Both of these plans agree on the necessity of starting with a provisional president who was a member of Madero's cabinet.

'Water in Milk?' 'Sure--'Twas Due to Heavy Rains'

That too much rain affected the milk was the defence today of Frank Reed of Lexington street, Waltham, in the District Court. He was charged with having in his possession and selling milk below the standard.

Reed pleaded not guilty before Judge Abbott, saying:

"Your honor, it was on August 2, early in the morning, I put the milk in a large tub and put the cover on, but it rained so hard that the water filled the tub and got into the milk and was discovered by the State milk inspector, Fred L. Marion."

Judge Abbott replied: "The next time you put milk in that tub use an umbrella." The case was continued until tomorrow.

British Submarine Sinks German Boat

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The British Admiralty announces that a British submarine has returned and reported the sinking of a German torpedo boat destroyer, believed to be of the G-196 class, on July 26, near the German coast.

CASHIER INMAN HEARD FROM IN NEW YORK

The authorities learned today that George S. Inman, the missing cashier of the United Fruit Company, whose accounts are alleged to show a shortage of $122,000, wrote from the Hotel Woodard, at Broadway and Fifty-fifth street, New York city, a week ago today, to his brokers, Dabney & Co., on Congress street, authorizing them to close his account and mail a check for the balance to Mrs. Inman.

Dabney & Co. forwarded a check to Mrs. Inman, who endorsed it to Cashier J. Lyman, counsel for Inman, and his wife. Lyman endorsed it to the National Surety Company, Inman's bonding company.

Harry Inman, brother of the missing cashier and an employe in the New York office of the United Fruit Company, arrived in Boston today at the request of District Attorney Pelletier. He was closely questioned by Assistant District Attorney Lavelle. He said he knew nothing of his brother's affairs or whereabouts.

SAY SPY CHARGE AT FOSS PLANT IS CONFIRMED

Joseph Tobin, chairman of the committee of striking machinists of the Becker Milling machine shop at Hyde Park, said today:

"The strikers' claim that German spies are employed by the Becker firm since the strike has been confirmed by no less an authority than John Becker, Jr., who has admitted that German working for them for $12 a week can afford every week-end to go to New York on mysterious errands.

"We also know that the wrecking operator from the Kronprinzessin Cecilie is at work in the factory. All of which is pretty sound corroborative of what the strikers claimed about German spies."

Greatest Crowd in the History of Lockhart Sales

Lockhart's First Great Hour Sale Wednesday Morning

If you would know the value of money read over the Hour Sale items below—don't be the last of the crowd who will rush into the store on the tick of the clock at 9:30 tomorrow morning. These goods will be on sale for one hour only and will not be sold before or after the time named. C. A. Lockhart.

It heartens me in my work to see the same faces at my sales year after year. I intend to see that they are compensated an hundred fold—says LOCKHART.

HOUGHTON & DUTTON Co.

New England's Greatest Cash Store

We grow wiser with experience, while the Lockhart "Mill-End" Sales are greater each year in value-giving — says LOCKHART.

Hundreds Upon Hundreds Flocked Into Our Store Through Every Door, Soon After Cock-Crowing Time This Morning

"YOU MAY HAVE BEEN HERE—but if you were not, let me urge you to come bright and early tomorrow morning," exclaims Lockhart. "There will be another record-breaking crowd tomorrow—and if the crowds are so great that you cannot get in through any of the doors, crawl in through the windows (and I will be on hand to open them for you). You may see the crowds come through the roof, on the fire-escapes and everywhere else before the day is over." C. A. Lockhart.

"Come Running. Come Early. Don't Miss WEDNESDAY—the Third Day of My Greatest 'Mill-End' Sale in Boston"

ITALIANS SMASH WAY WITH BIG GUN FIRE

By BRINTON D'ALLAIRE,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

ROME, Aug. 2.—Italian howitzers are rapidly reducing Fort Hermet, the chief defensive work at Malborghetto, in the Carnic Alps, and the Italian General Staff is certain that the immediate future will see Austrian communication cut between Trentino and Carinthia.

Dispatches from Bologna today state that the bombardment of the Tarvis group of fortifications is making such headway and the Italian operations against the Austrian defences of Gerizia, on the Isonzo front, are so successful that Lieutenant-General Count Luigi Cadorna has already mapped out his plan of campaign to follow the fall of one or both these places.

ARTILLERY DUEL.

Prisoners of war and wounded Italian troops who are back from Gorizia declare that the fighting on the Isonzo front during July ranked with anything in France or Poland for sanguinary fierceness. Mountain gullies and at some places the Isonzo River itself were choked with corpses.

A violent artillery duel is in progress in Cadore, following a lull caused by heavy fog.

The Italian Alpine troops are winning imperishable laurels in the Carnic Alps. The capture of Monte Modetta was a brilliant achievement.

On the Carso plateau the Austrian trenches were cut into the rocky slopes, tier upon tier, like a stairway, and the Alpine troops, having succeeded in taking the first line are now attacking the second.

BOMBARD TRENCHES.

The Italian artillery has been brought forward rapidly and is bombarding the new Austrian trenches. The infantry has maintained a steady pressure on the retreating Austrians and each day is marked by the capture of prisoners and considerable booty.

EDIZIONE ITALIANA
BOSTON AMERICAN

VOL. I. BOSTON, 3 AGOSTO, 1915. NO. 16

LA PRIMA LINEA A STRIACA ANNIENTATA. I NEMICI CIRCONDATI.

Forze Nemiche Circondate

Alì estrema destra, nuovi successi riportati martedì in colonna serrata, provenienti da Duino, per attaccare le posizioni Italiane di Doberdo, caddero sotto il fuoco micidiale delle batterie pesanti Italiane e furono annientati e dispersi con immense perdite.

L'artiglieria italiana da grosso calibro agisce splendidamente nello impedire che dei rinforzi numerosi arrivino alle linee di combattimento, poichè i suoi proiettili a lunghissima gittata prima che arrivino alle trincee. Le gravi perdite austriache sono principalmente dovute alla meravigliosa precisione degli artiglieri italiani.

LA CATTURA DI FORCELLA.

La cattura della sommità di Forcella, situata dietro l'attacco alla baionetta di due separate colonne italiane, in sostituì al quale gli austriaci furono sgominati, e le loro trincee conquistate, è altro brillante successo degli Italiani.

Milano, 2 agosto.—La barda le nuove trincee austriache. La fanteria, d'altre canto, si è maneiuta in contatto col nemico, forzandolo continuamente a ritirarsi, prendendo ogni giorno buon numero di prigionieri e rilevante bottino.

A Vallone sul Carso gli Austriaci tentarono una risoluta offensiva contro le nuove linee italiani conquistate, ma furono respinti con gravissime perdite.

GLI AUSTRIACI RESPINTI.

MOLTI UFFICIALE PRIGIONIERI.

Il numero degli ufficiali austriaci prest prigionieri è considerevolmente alto: sino le passerone degli uomini di truppa.

Cio' si spiega in diverso modo. In ragione dell'attendibile, secondo quello che dicono i prigionieri, che i soldati, presi dal panico per i terribili effetti dell'artiglieria italiana, scappano come forsennati via e lasciano indietro i loro superiori. Questi, completamente inermi contro il fuoco micidiale degli attaccanti, cadono facilmente in mano della fanteria italiana.

Un Austriaci non si arrendono per codardia o debole difesa; al contrario essi hanno opposto la più grande resistenza che vinse vinti dall'eccellente organizzazione delle truppe Italiane, buona splendida direzione tattica, la forza delle loro posizioni e il valore dei loro ufficiali e degli uomini che le compongono. Gli Italiani sono valorosissimi.

Gravi Perdite Teutoniche

Sul Carso, circa 170,000 tedeschi vi erano concentrati, ed una gran parte di essi sono stati digia' morti al fronte.

GORIZIA MINACCIATA DA DUE FIANCHI.

In connessione alla battaglia sulle colline del Carso, Tavanzata italiana a Lava e' considerevolmente importante poiche' minaccia le fortificazioni a difendere Gorizia da ambo i fianchi.

MONTE SANTO A NOSTRA MERCE.

Monte Kuk, dove gli italiani occuparono le trincee alla sua sommita', e la chiave di un sistema di difesa a fortificazioni su Monte Santo, il quale s' ora alla mercè degli Italiani.

Le posizioni italiani minacciando Monte Sabotino che protegge l'estrema ditta austriaca, sull'altra sponda del Valore dei loro ufficiali e degli uomini che le compongono. Gli Italiani sono valorosissimi.

10,000,000 NOW IN GERMAN ARMIES

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Ten million men are now enrolled under the German flag, according to a statement made at the hearing of the meat cargo cases before a British prize court, the Frederick E. Smith, the solicitor-general, produced a sworn affidavit made by Major Eric Dillon, a member of the general staff, giving a British estimate on this effect.

The statement was produced in support of the crown's contention that persons employed in some of the ordinarily civilian occupations are now in the service of the German government and no longer part of the civilian population, and that therefore the foodstuffs seized by the British government really was intended for Germany's military forces.

Major Dillon's figures follow:

1.—Under arms on two fronts, in garrisons in Belgium and on lines of communication, 4,000,000.

2.—In training in Germany, 750,000.

3.—Casualties, including constant temporary wastage, 2,000,000.

4.—On railways, all of which are used and organized specially for war and are controlled by the military authorities, 500,000.

5.—At Krupp's arsenal and factories and other arsenals and factories concerned in the manufacture of war munitions, 750,000.

6.—In coal mines and in factories concerned in making army boots, clothing and other articles necessary in the equipment and provisioning of the army, 2,000,000.

Allies Prepare for 4 Years War Says Corey

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—William Ellis Corey, formerly president of the United States Steel Corporation, was a passenger on board the steamship Espagne, from Bordeaux.

"The allies are optimistic," said Mr. Corey, "but they are preparing for three or four years of war. The war is decidedly one of chemistry and mechanics. The allies are eager for both the moral and financial support of the United States, but are more interested in the financial end.

"It would not be a good thing for the United States to get into the conflict. Unpreparedness is the reason. I would like this country two years to get into shape to combat a first class Power. We might as well attack Liberia or Spain, but this would be an effort. I have no use for a man who wants peace at any price nor for the man who wants war at any cost. 'Peace with dignity' is the right slogan.

"Russia must reorganize her army. There is no doubt of her resources, but they have got a bad start. It is generally recognized and I believe that the Grand Duke Nicholas is the greatest military leader in Europe."

Pickering Says Rainfall Is Not Caused by War

"The war in Europe has nothing to do with the present abnormal rainfall," declares Professor Edward C. Pickering, director of the Harvard Observatory and one of the foremost students of the sky in the United States.

Many near-meteorologists have asserted that the recent abnormal rainfall is the result of the terrific cannonading of the war in Europe.

"That theory is nearly as old as the ages," says Professor Pickering. "It has been disproved many times.

"Everybody knows that after the comparative quiet of the Winter campaign the firing broke out with redoubled fury in the early Spring. Accordingly, if the theorists' belief was the true one we would have had rain or cloudy weather at that time."

NEW HAITI FIGHT PREVENTED BY U. S. GUNS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The Navy Department today ordered the speedy sea-going tug Osceola to proceed immediately from Guantanamo to Port Au Prince, Haiti. This was done so that Admiral Caperton may have a fast light draught vessel on which he can rush an expedition to any part of the island where disturbances may crop out at any time.

Only the presence of United States marines and guns from the cruiser Washington mounted in the streets of Port Au Prince prevents another revolutionary outbreak there for the city is seething with excitement, according to dispatches.

Haiti is still without a President, there is a deadlock in Congress there.

Dr. Bobo, leader of the revolution, declined today to treat with the peace commission that arrived from Port au Prince on the American cruiser Washington.

The battleship Connecticut is expected at Port Au Prince late today or tomorrow from Hampton Roads with more marines.

NEW GAINS FOR THE ALLIES AT DARDANELLES

By JOHN C. FOSTER,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Another gain for the allies on the Gallipoli peninsula in the Dardanelles theatre of war is reported by Sir Ian Hamilton, commander-in-chief of the British forces. The official announcement of the allies' success was made through the government press bureau. It follows:

"We have won the crest of a ridge in the network of Turkish trenches. The captured position is on the right of the position held by the Australians and New Zealanders.

"Our success was attained mainly through a bombardment and the explosion of three mines. One section of the Turkish lines was rushed with the bayonet. The Turks did not counter attack. Corpses of seventy Turks were counted."

Ask "Fin. Com." to Probe Contract

The Finance Commission today received the City Council request to investigate the award of a contract to Dave Birch street, West Roxbury, with asphalt pavement, a pavement controlled exclusively by Warren Brothers Company.

The contract was awarded by the city to A. B. Archer with the proviso that the new bituminic pavement Counsellor Hagan protested.

Highway Engineer James H. Sullivan, who drew the specifications, appeared before the Council to explain. He said the unusually steep grade of Birch street required this sort of pavement. He said he was not to blame if this pavement was made by only one firm.

GERMANS AGAIN TURN GUNS ON SOISSONS

By FRANKLIN P. MERRICK,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—Soissons has again been bombarded by the Germans with their heavy, long range guns. The cannonade was described by the French War Office today in an official communique as "extremely violent."

The French position at Les Eparges in the Woevre district, twelve miles northeast of St. Mihiel, has also been shelled by the Germans.

German attacks against the French position at Berrieskof in the Vosges, though very severe, were successfully repulsed.

Soissons lies at the junction of the Oise and Aisne rivers, about 52 miles northeast of Paris. It has been intermittently bombarded for several weeks.

British Submarine Sinks Turkish Ships

LONDON, Aug. 3.—It is officially announced that one of the British submarines operating in the Sea of Marmora has torpedoed a large steamer of 3,000 tons off the Mudania Pier, which had several vessels secured alongside. The explosion was very heavy.

A small steamer close to Karabigha Bay was torpedoed.

Torpedoes were fired at lighters alongside the arsenal at Constantinople.

The Zeitouli Powder Mills were fired at.

The railway cut West of Kara Burun was bombarded and the line blocked temporarily so that a troop train was unable to pass. It was being fired at as it steamed back, three truck loads of ammunition being blown up.

Germans Use Flax in Place of Cotton

ROTTERDAM, Aug. 3.—The Germans already have begun using flax as a substitute for cotton in munitions factories. The taking of an inventory of all stocks of cotton and of other textiles throughout Germany began November 15. All kinds of cotton and articles made from cotton, even including underclothing and shirts must be listed.

Already several members of the society, including Mrs. A. D. B. Pratt, Mrs. John A. Logan, Jr., Mrs. Stow, Phelps and Mrs. Vivian Spencer, have offered their Summer homes for emergency hospitals.

WILSON TO HELP MERCHANT MARINE

By International News Service.

CORNISH, N. H., Aug. 3.—A new and vigorous effort is going to be made to build up an American merchant marine when Congress opens. This was made plain here today by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, who declared that it was probable that the ship purchase bill would be revived in the same form in which it was presented to Congress at the last session.

"The Democratic party is pledged to aid our merchant marine," said Mr. McAdoo, "and while I do not know exactly what form the campaign will take, I am positive it will meet with the approval of the nation."

After a brief conference with President Wilson, the Secretary and Mrs. McAdoo left by automobile for Boston.

President Wilson has decided to remain at Harlakenden house for about another week.

Mrs. Annie Howe and Mrs. Anna Cellman, sister and niece of the President, arrived at Cornish today.

MANY IN PERIL IN SHIP BLAZE AT T WHARF

Fire today in the engine compartment, containing 350 gallons of gasoline, on board the fishing schooner Evelyn M. Thompson, threatened the lives of firemen and tugboat crews, as well as T Wharf.

Notwithstanding the likelihood of the gasoline exploding, firemen and sailor volunteers fought the blaze until they got it under control.

Finishing touches on extensive repairs to the boat were being put on when the blaze occurred. It started when men repairing her gasolene engine used a lighted candle around the motor.

Immediately the entire hold containing the engine was in flames, the workmen narrowly escaping with their lives. The tugs Sadie Rose and Betsy Ross nosed in ready to tow the blazing ship out.

The schooner is a two-master with auxiliary power. During the fire she nearly sank so great was the weight of water thrown aboard. After the fire was out the same fire engines started in to pump her out.

The schooner is owned by the Thomas A. Dromell Company, which places the damage at $2,500 if the new engine escaped damage.

Neglected Street Causes Accident

William M. Dunn, aged 48, of No. 147 Athens street, South Boston, was painfully injured today on Dorchester avenue, near Savin Hill avenue, when he was thrown from the wagon he was driving into the street, the rear wheel of the wagon passing over his shoulder. The poor condition of the street is blamed as a cause for the accident, one of the wheels catching in a deep hole.

LOTS TO ENJOY IN VARIETY AT KEITH'S

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

There were all sorts of things from trained dogs to a chamber quartet upon the bill at Keith's yesterday, and anybody who couldn't pick out half a dozen laughs at either would probably prefer cricket to baseball.

Judging from the volume and heartiness of applause the most popular act was that of Al and Fanny Steadman in "piano-opera." Fanny is a large, plump girl who bubbles over with the stuff that made Eva Tanguay famous, and Al is no slouch at inducing laughter. Neither have any objection to trying anything that will go over, and while their comedy is often very low it is hardly ever funny.

Speaking of low comedy, let us consider James C. Morton and Frank P. Moore, who are assisted by two pretty ladies. These gentlemen dance, sing, fall down, roll over, bite, scratch and let nothing fall upon them to get the laugh, and they get it.

Theodore Bendix, who conducted the official orchestra of the San Francisco Exposition during the first few months of the Fair, appears at the piano with three Symphony players and renders a short but pretty program of chamber music.

Lee Pernikoff and Ethel Rose and the Imperial ballet from the Metropolitan Opera House are featured in the sort of dancing Pavlowa has made famous. Pernikoff is hardworking and agile, but he isn't quite tall enough to jungle Ethel Rose in Russian style without making hard work of it. Miss Rose dances well, and six girls, presumably from the ballet of the New York Metropolitan Opera, perform a number of attractive evolutions.

Robert Emmet Keane, late of "The Passing Show," recites a poem by Robert Service, the Canadian Kipling, who is getting to be a favorite with vaudevillians who wants to be serious for a minute, and does it well.

He tries to imitate an Englishman for the rest of the act and does not do it well. A peculiarly original and attractive act is that of Adeline Francis, the grasshopper girl, who sings duets and carries on conversations with her own voice upon the machine. It is rather uncanny, but it is also funny.

Olive Briscoe in songs and patter was pleasing, but appeared to be suffering from a cold last night. The Clairmont Brothers are truly marvelous upon a revolving ladder. Loyal's French poodles are exceptionally amusing.

Scollay Square Olympia.

A very pleasing bill was shown yesterday to full houses at the Scollay Square Olympia Theatre. The Florenzes comedy, magic novelty offering; Ross and Overholt, in a fast singing and dancing number; Dare Austin and company, comedy sketch, entitled "His Wedd-i Morn"; ...dele, eccentric acrobatic dancing offering, "Scenes from the South," spectacular revue, special scenery and effects; Elliott and Mullen, black-face singing and dancing skit, entitled "Two Shades of Burnt Cork"; Wheeler trio, comedy acrobats; the great two-reel Essanay drama, "A Man Afraid."

Tremont Theatre.

These are farewell nights at the Tremont Theatre. "The Birth of a Nation" began the last week but two of its stay in this city yesterday and again proved the universality of public interest which has been aroused by this photo-play presenting the scenes of the Civil War to the amusement seekers of Boston.

St. James Theatre.

A splendid variety performance was given at this popular Back Bay theatre yesterday to big houses. Among the feature acts was Stanley James and company in a comedy farce sketch, entitled "Hixbie's Baby," which kept the audiences amused. The colored entertainers, Moss and Frye, made a decided hit with their comedy singing. Richard Burton pleased with his singing and monologue. Martini brothers kept the house in laughter with their funny acrobatic stunts. Sterling and Margaret pleased with their aerial stunts. Among the feature photo plays to be shown was the "Romance of Elaine."

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

Women and children always find the show at the Bowdoin Square Theatre just to their liking, and this week the management is putting forth an entertainment of exceptional merit. Violet Mascotte's 40 Merrie maids are viewed in two musical farces, introducing a minstrel first part with all the girls taking a prominent part.

Modern Theatre.

"The Sins of the Mothers," a drama in five parts, and the winner of first prize in the New York Sun scenario contest, is the main attraction, featuring Anita Stewart and Earle Williams, the popular Vitagraph stars, who are capably supported by an excellent cast; the picture dealing as it does with the care of heredity is well acted and holds the interest up to the last. The piece was written by Elaine Sterne, and produced by Ralph W. Ince. The careful handling of the several parts by a splendid cast contributes all that could be desired in the way of an interesting motion picture story.

The balance of the program includes the latest episode of "The Goddess," two changes of the Pathe News, new songs by the Modern Quartet and organ recitals.

Park Theatre.

The charming "Little Mary" Pickford in her latest and what is undoubtedly one of her greatest photo-play characterizations, "Rags," the latest Famous Players release on the Paramount program, heads the unusually delightful program being offered at the Park Theatre this week. Another excellent Paramount picture, the latest Lasky Feature Play Company production, lends equal strength to the big three hours' program. This is the picturization of Harold McGrath's most popular romance, "The Puppet Crown," in which is starred Broadway's inimitable favorite, Ina Claire, supported by Carlyle Blackwell and a particularly capable cast. The Monday matinee at the Park found these two Paramount pictures much to their liking, and the entire three-hour program proved to be one of the best that has been offered at this popular home of Paramount pictures this season.

Wilbur Theatre.

The Wilbur Theatre will have for the opening attraction of the season "Nobody Home," a musical farce by Paul Rubens and Jerome Kern, which has been delighting the New Yorkers for the past six months. The date for the opening performance has been set for Monday evening, August 16.

MAN FROM HOME REVISITS THE MAJESTIC

Encouraged by the continued cool weather, the Majestic Players have caused that popular house to reopen its doors, and presented last night the strong and tantalizing comedy "The Man from Home." Carl Stowe, who was understudy to William Hodge during the run of the play in Boston, appears in the title role.

It will be remembered that when the star stock idea was introduced at the Majestic last season Mr. Stowe and "The Man from Home" were chosen to begin the regime of the Majestic Players.

"The Man from Home," by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, tells in the most amusing fashion of the adventures of a lank person from Indiana who puts the British aristocracy in their place, goes around with a Russian grand duke and finally wins the love of his pretty ward after he has saved her from the peerage.

It's just the kind of play the good old American people like, and it will probably put money in the pockets of stock houses all over the country for a long time yet.

It certainly pleased the folks who were on hand at both performances yesterday.

Carl Stowe is ideal in appearance and manner for the title part. Although he is a Yankee and said to be a member of the family which produced "Uncle Tom's Cabin" he managed to find the Kokomo dialect handy enough. In the strong scenes he handles himself admirably.

The supporting company was hastily collected, but it is capable and the play is being well performed. The players include Mrs. George A. Hibbard, Rose Morison, Margaret Gulesian, William C. Mason and Selmin Gayer, who played the role of Almeric St. Aubyn in the original production.

Next week Valeska Suratt in "Sapho."

Globe Theatre.

The best show seen at this theatre this season was presented to big houses yesterday. Among the headliners was a farce comedy sketch, entitled "Beauty Doctors," which was full of funny situations. That popular English character comedian, Frank Terry, entertained with his original specialty. Brown and Newman pleased with their new comedy singing skit. Smith and Ralph, two juvenile character entertainers, also came in for a good share of applause.

Among the feature photo plays was Griffith's Biograph masterpiece, entitled "The Battle of Elderbrush Gulch," which kept the audiences spellbound throughout.

Boston Theatre.

Sir Gilbert Parker's greatest novel, "The Right of Way," made into a five-part picture drama, with William Faversham in the principal role, is the star attraction at the big Boston Theatre this week. Mr. Faversham is famous for his creation of the role of Charlie Steele in the spoken version of "The Right of Way" upon the legitimate stage. The version of Sir Gilbert Parker's great tale of the limitless north woods of Quebec is even more absorbing and powerful than the novel or the play.

THE STORY OF FATHER JOHN'S

Fifty years ago Rev. Father John O'Brien of Lowell, Mass., recommended to his parishioners and friends the prescription that restored him to health and strength, so the people named it Father John's Medicine. It heals throat and lungs and builds up the body.

As a guarantee that the story of Father John's Medicine is absolutely true, the sum of $25,000 will be given to any charitable institution if it can be shown otherwise.

In the struggle for health and renewed strength Father John's Medicine is the best body builder for those who are weak and run down because it is pure and wholesome nourishing food which makes new flesh and strength without using alcohol.—Advertisement.

'YELLOW JACKET' BY THE COBURN PLAYERS

Inclement weather drove the performance into Sanders Theatre from the campus, where preparations had been made for an outdoor presentation.

"Yellow Jacket," which was extensively commented on when first played in Boston, is a play after the Chinese and is so different from the modern American drama that the average audience fails to appreciate its humor and its flights of imagination.

A chorus, impersonated by Mr. Coburn, tells the spectators at the beginning that they must become as little the love of his pretty ward after he has saved her from the peerage.

It's just the kind of play the good old American people like, and it will probably put money in the pockets of stock houses all over the country for a long time yet.

It certainly pleased the folks who were on hand at both performances yesterday.

CALL ALDERMAN TO COURT IN EVERETT ROW

That punch on the nose which Alderman John J. Mullen of Everett claims Alderman Fred A. Hansen gave him to punctuate a street-widening debate in the aldermanic chamber resulted in court proceedings today.

Alderman Mullen, more bruised in feelings than anywhere else, came to the Malden District Court to get a warrant for the arrest of Alderman Hansen. Assistant Clerk Bacon said a summons was enough and declined to grant a warrant.

Hansen is to be haled into court on August 18. He says he will have something interesting to tell. Mullen said that he would summons every member of the Everett city government from Mayor Chambers down as a witness. There are seven aldermen and twenty-two councilmen.

Pedestrians were startled to hear shouts of "help" from the aldermanic chamber. A policeman found Mullen's tie dangling outside his coat and his coat collar disarranged.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE DEAF

If you are losing your hearing—if you are troubled with buzzing and ringing in the ears—if you find that your nostrils are clogged—if you hawk and spit in the morning—if you have given up hopes of finding relief, just go to Riker-Jaynes, or any other drug store, and purchase one ounce of Fluid Ensenol. Mix this with one pint of warm water. Put two drops in the affected ear every night. Put one tablespoonful in a fourth of a glass of warm water and gargle throat and snuff up nose night and morning. Keep this up for a few weeks and test your hearing and you will be pleased to note the improvement. You will also, no doubt, discover that your catarrh has disappeared and head noises gone.

"THE RABBITS" COLUMN
By Walter J. Maranville
SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 3.—

A year ago last Spring Al Mamaux, the Pittsburgh pitcher, was heard of only because he happened to be tried on the same team with Pitcher Papa. When Papa was released the jokesmiths forgot about the other end of the joke.

Now Mamaux is the sensation of the National League.

Mamaux is successful through hard work, practice and study. He is bred and trained to pitching. His father is John Mamaux, a Pittsburgh manufacturer of tents and awnings, in his younger days he was a star semi-pro hurler. He preferred business to a big league career.

When his son, Albert Leon, was old enough to grip a baseball, the elder Mamaux took him into the yard and began showing him how to pitch. In school Albert was the best pitcher in his class. At 16 he was pitching against teams of grown men. He and his father attended big league games together and studied pitchers and batting.

* * *

Mamaux started his professional career with Wilkinsburg in the Allegheny County League, was secured by Pittsburgh, tried in the spring of 1915, sent to Ft. Wayne of the Central League for seasoning and recalled to Pittsburg for trial in the spring of 1914.

Fred Clarke, the Pittsburgh manager, when asked that Spring about the youngster, said: "He's going to be one of the best pitchers in the country."

"What's he got?"

"Brains."

Mamaux has been Pittsburg's best pitcher this season. He is quiet and unassuming. He is the best musician in baseball. He plays a violin in concert work in the Winter.

"The biggest trouble with present-day batters is they pull away from the plate instead of wading into the ball," says Jawn McGraw, Giant foreman.

"For a long time I refused to pay attention to folks who said ball players don't hit as well as the old-timers, but now I'm convinced. The youngsters coming up just naturally hit, that's all. You can't get them to lay back to ball.

"I haven't played for a long time, but I can get in there any day and hit better than some of the chaps I see around the circuit."

* * *

Just to show in what high regard Nap Rucker is held by the owners of the Brooklyn Club Vice President McKeever said, that some time ago, when Nap was going badly and the cry went up that the one-time famous southpaw was all in, President Ebbets went to Rucker and said:

"Nap, you have always been a faithful employe of the Brooklyn Club. Just to prove to you that the Brooklyn Club appreciates what you did for it for years I am going to strike out the ten-day release clause from your contract, notwithstanding that you are now going bad."

* * *

According to McKeever, Rucker was opposed to the ten-day release clause being taken out of his contract, saying that if he was unable to make good, then he did not want any more consideration extended to him than to any other player on the team. But Ebbets insisted and today there is no ten-day clause in the big Georgian's document.

* * *

Every season the story goes the rounds that Christy Mathewson is through, and then along comes Christy and muddles the charges by pitching splendid ball. True, Mathewson cannot be expected to do the brunt of lots of work, but when given proper rest and with Christy's judgment he will win a large majority of the games he starts in. Matty still is the pitching mainstay of the Giants. He continues to be a consistent performer for McGraw and without him there would be decidedly little hope for that team to finish in the first division.

* * *

Cleveland is the only team in the American League which has made a triple play this season; in fact, the Indians have made three such plays—two in championship events and the other in an exhibition affair.

The first triple play pulled off by Cleveland was in the Spring against the Columbus club, with men on second and first, when Pitcher Walker got a batted fly, touched first and then threw to Chapman and caught a runner off the middle sack.

New York was the victim in the first triple play of the Indians in a championship contest. With men on second and first, First Baseman Pratt and catcher Maisel's liner, stepped on first and then threw to Chapman. Last Saturday the Athletics were the victims. Again second and first were occupied. Lajoie lined to Barbare, who threw to Wambsganss, doubling up Malone at second, and Wambsganss threw to Kirk and put out Schang.

Rockland Fans Are Coming in Big Body

"Rockland Day" will be celebrated at Fenway Park this afternoon and over 2,000 residents of that town, the former home of Owner Lannin of the Red Sox, will come to Boston to cheer the Red Sox. The visitors will come heralded with badges, pennants and accompanied by a band. Special prizes of shoes made in Rockland will be offered to the Red Sox players for good batting and other meritorious efforts on the diamond.

SOX AND TIGERS IN FINAL FROLIC

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

Last game today between the Tigers and Red Sox. The Tigers have it on Our Boys by two games to one. We trust the rain will not put in an appearance until the last man is out. This habit of breaking up baseball battles just when they are at their most interesting point is painful.

The Tigers will not be here again until well into September, so it behooves all who have not seen Jennings eat grass, Cobb make a three-bagger or Crawford connect for a long drive, to get up to the yard this afternoon.

The chances are that "Uncle Bill" the Red Sox manager, will send either Joe Wood or Ernest Shore after the bacon. It would have been pretty good judgement to have pitched one of this pair yesterday, as the day was very dark and speed would doubtless have had the Tigers guessing.

Jennings may send Coveleskie after the final game. This boy is going very well this year and may cause trouble for the Red Sox. If Covie doesn't pitch Jean Dubuc, the heavy-hitting twirler, may get the chance, or Boland. The last named looks good and has only pitched two or three rounds in this series.

If the Red Sox win the series will end on a fifty-fifty basis, which will be quite satisfactory. After the Tigers leave town the Cleveland's show up, and while Our Boys cannot afford to take chances with this team, it will at least be a kind of breathing spell. Tackling the White Sox and Tigers in succession is a nerve-racking performance.

Langford Credited with Saving a Girl

MILFORD, Aug. 2.—Sam Langford, the Boston Tar Baby, attending the clambake of the North Pond, enacted the hero class by going to the rescue of two young women, swept overboard when a squall struck the pond and turned over the frail rowboat they were in.

The ladies are Miss Sadie Leclair of Lowell and Mrs. John Terrio of Malta. Miss Leclair was swept into the water and Langford, who was watching out for from the scene, rushed to her rescue and pulled her out of the water.

WILLIAMS LEADS BIG TENNIS MATCH

If the Weather Man will only be kind for a few hours this afternoon some real tennis should be exhibited in the crucial stages of the Longwood Cricket Grounds.

R. Norris Williams 2nd, the National singles champion, is in a fair way to win his fourth match against C. J. Griffin, the California star. Williams has won two sets and is leading in what will probably prove to be the final set by 4 games to 1 and the score 30 all.

Griffin is a hard player, one who goes after everything. While not as polished as Williams, and far from being a stylist, Griffin has a fine assortment of strokes, which he mixes up in admirable fashion, always showing the best of headwork.

Williams has never played better tennis than this year. He is the finished product of an artist, and it is most interesting from the spectators point of view to watch how the same results are often obtained, by such different methods, as the player may employ.

Williams, if he wins, will meet Wallace F. Johnson of Philadelphia, in the semi-final bracket, and the winner of this match will then oppose N. W. Niles, the former Massachusetts singles title-holder, who has recently won his finalist berth. Yesterday Niles defeated Craig Biddle, after four hard sets had been played.

Boston Y. C. Has Big Midsummer List

Other classes provided for by August 20 are P and Bar Harbor 31-footers, class P to allow the Bar Harbor 24 seconds per nautical mile. B, Y. C. 1st special rating and 2d special rating; 1st handicap for yachts 35 feet over all and 2nd handicap, for yachts under 35 feet over all.

Regattas on August 18, 19 and 21 will start at 2:30 p. m., the classes being P, Bar Harbor 31-footers, B. C. 1st and 2d special rating, sonders, R, also A, B, C, D, I and X of the Y. R. U. of M.

Fritz Maisel's Kid Brother Is a Tiger

Manager Hugh Jennings of the Detroit Tigers reports the purchase of Outfielder George Maisel of the Scranton (New York State League) club. It is understood the Detroit manager paid $3,000 for the brother release.

Maisel is a brother of Fritz Maisel, the star third baseman of the New York Yankees. He is hitting at a .325 clip and leads the New York State League in stealing bases. Jennings does not look for the youngster to report for duty until mid-September.

Rowland Will Not Secure Joe Jackson

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3.—The report sent out from Chicago yesterday that Outfielder Joe Jackson of the Cleveland club was going to be sold to the White Sox is strenuously denied by Vice-President Barnard.

"Chicago or no other club stands any chance of getting Jackson or any of our good men," stated Barnard. "Manager Wohl is in the field for good purchases himself."

PROMOTERS MAY MATCH WILLARD AND LAVINSKY

By FRANK G. MENKE.

Realizing that the public likes to be amused at times, the boxing promoters are talking about a Jess Willard-Battling Levinsky match for Labor Day.

A match between Willard and Levinsky just now promises to be the last word in pugilistic burlesque. Levinsky is somewhat shy of being six feet tall and he weighs only around 170. Willard is 6 feet 6 inches tall and weight well over 250. In other words Levinsky, a third rate pug, would be "spotting" the champion about seven inches in height, eighty pounds in weight and about ten inches in reach.

Why don't the promoters frame up a Leach Cross-Jess Willard match? That would be even funnier than the proposed Levinsky-Willard go.

Johnny Coulon, who used to wear the bantam crown upon his dome, still yearns for another chance against Kid Williams, but in the meantime John is busy gathering in the shekels through real estate operations in Chicago.

Johnny says he has about $50,000 left of his ring earnings, and by judicious investments has accumulated about $20,000 more.

The whole town of Hastings, Ont., and 250 above the town's population turned out to see a lacrosse game played there recently. Hastings has a population of 700 and the attendance at the match was 1,020.

The old story about Charles Comiskey and Umpire Joe Cantillon has been revived. It goes thusly:

Cantillon gave a few raw decisions at the White Sox park one day and the whole town "panned" him. The next day Joe appeared at the gate with two companions. He wanted the gateman to pass them, but the custodian refused.

Just at that point Comiskey passed by inside the gate. Cantillon hailed him.

"Hey, Commy," he yelled. "I got two friends here with me and I'd like to have them passed through."

Commy looked at Joe, then at his two friends, and said:

"Sure, bring 'em in. Any fellows who are brave enough to be friends of an umpire deserve to get in free."

A decayed tooth is the alibi—and the satisfactory alibi—that L. M. Gerhart, a pitcher in the Western Association, offers for his poor showing in other years.

Gerhart began operations in the Texas League. His work was erratic. Some days he would pitch like a Walter Johnson; other days he would be wilder than a Cannibal chieftain. On his "off" days he usually would "blow" around the fourth or fifth innings.

Gerhart was released by a half-dozen teams. Despite this, he still left confidence in himself.

"I've got stuff on them, but something uncanny is wrong with it," he used to tell his teammates.

"It works all right for four or five innings and then, without any apparent reason it goes bad. I lose control of all the nerves in my arm and can't get the ball over."

TED LEWIS AND GLOVER MEET TONIGHT

ATLAS A. A. PROGRAM.

Ted "Kid" Lewis, England, vs. Mike Glover, South Boston, twelve rounds.

Ray Wood, Fall River, vs. Walter Butler, Revere, eight rounds.

Johnny Emery, Cambridge, vs. Battling Carroll, Lawrence, six rounds.

Johnny Boyle, Lowell, vs. Billy Corrigan, Cambridge, six rounds.

OTHER BOUTS TONIGHT.

Harry Carlson vs. Frank McManus, Gloucester.

Carl Delaney vs. Artie Root, Akron, O.

By JACK CONWAY.

TED "KID" LEWIS, one of the cleverest boxers developed in England in recent years, will make his Boston debut tonight, when he meets Mike Glover of South Boston in a twelve-round battle at the Atlas A. A. It should be a fast, even tussle replete with brilliant boxing, speedy footwork and clean, hard hitting, as both men have gained considerable fame in their contests within the ham ropes.

Lewis was substituted for "Soldier" Bartfield, who was forced to withdraw from his contest with Glover on account of an injured right hand. Bartfield would gladly have fought Glover here if he had been able to do so.

The Atlas A. A. was very fortunate in being able to secure the services of Lewis, as he is as good, if not a better, fighter than Bartfield. Any young man who can score victories over Charley White, Jack Britton, "Kid" Graves, Phil Bloom and Joe "Young" Shugrue must possess an abundance of what is commonly known as class.

LEWIS is the former featherweight champion of England. He has grown heavy, however, and cannot now make lower than 135 pounds ringside. Even 135 pounds is now very low weight for Lewis to make, and he fights at his best when scaling around 140 pounds. He has agreed to reduce to 142 pounds for Glover, which should enable him to enter the ring at the Atlas Club in the best possible condition.

Jimmy Johnson is here with Lewis. The New Yorker has piloted many great ring men to the Hub, but he says that Lewis is the classiest fighter he has ever had under his charge. Jimmy may be a little bit enthusiastic over his new protege, as he managed both Jem Driscoll and Owen Moran, who were mighty fighters. Lewis, however, has a record which places him in a class with the best men of his weight in the world.

THE writer has never seen Lewis in action, but I have been informed by men who are well posted in ring affairs and who have seen Lewis that the Englishman is a remarkable boxer. They say that he has a better left hand than Jack Welsh, while he is every bit as fast as the lightweight champion. He must be a fine boxer or else he would not have been able to have outpointed White, Britton, Graves and Shugrue, all high-class performers.

GLOVER has been made a favorite in the betting. The chances are that he will enter the ring a la to 4 choice. The abundance of Glover money will be sure to put the betting odds in his favor. If Lewis were a local boy, conditions would probably be the reverse. As a short end proposition, Lewis is a good bet, as he has a fine chance to gain the decision which will be rendered by Referee Phil Powers.

GLOVER has prepared himself very carefully for tonight's encounter. He trained for the match at Highland Lake and will enter the ring ready to put up a hard fight. He's out to win by a large margin if possible.

Ray Wood of Fall River and Walter Butler of Revere will exchange blows in the semi-final tussle of eight rounds. These boys should put up a strenuous engagement. There will also be a couple of six-round matches.

Two Lynn Crews to Race in Nationals

Lynn will be represented by two crews in the national regatta to be held in Springfield. The Farragut Boat Club and the West Lynn Boat Club will enter eights in the intermediate event.

The crews will be the same as those which competed for the Bennett Club July 24.

Ringside Results

GLOUCESTER, Aug. 3.—"Sailor Jim" Carroll knocked out Jim Barry of Cambridge in the fourth round at the Lane A. C. Young Joe Rivers stopped John McGinnis in the second round, while Joe Fenton Kid and "Kid" Wilson fought a four-round draw.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Aug. 3.—Ad Wolgast, the former lightweight champion, was leading Jo Deisler (again so badly that in the seventh round the State Boxing Commission agent ordered Referee Wood to stop the bout. Deisler was completely outclassed.

TITLE MEET IS LIKELY TO BE SHIFTED

By TED MEREDITH,
World's Champion Middle-Distance Runner.

PORTLAND, Ore., August 3.—There is quite a little controversy from what I can learn by the papers of San Francisco, about where the National A. A. U. championships are to be held on Friday and Saturday. The climatic condition, which are almost sure to exist on the Pan-American Exposition grounds—such as high winds—will help the time in some events and greatly retard it in others.

The sprinters usually have the wind behind them, and it blows at such a terrific gale that a mediocre sprinter can easily do record time. But when the distance men start to run into the wind they are greatly handicapped.

The officials in San Francisco are waiting for the arrival of the eastern officials so a conference may be held.

MUST DODGE THE WINDS.

It is rumored that the scene of the games will be changed to Berkeley Stadium, which is well protected from the winds. Last Saturday at the western championships this wind broke up the whole meet. At times, it is said, about 2:30 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the wind sets in, and either blows a heavy fog across the field, or grows so cold the athletes become chilled.

Conditions were such last week that Coach "Bill Hayward" of the Pacific Northwest Association, would not train his boys on the track, but took them across the bay to the Berkeley oval.

When the pistol cracks Friday, opening the junior and senior championship meeting, it will be the first time in the history of athletics in this country that the pick of athletes in the East, Middle West and Far West will meet in a contest that should decide the athletic supremacy of the country.

EASTERN TEAM SMALL ONE.

Each time a championship has been held heretofore it has been flooded with local talent, with only a few entries from far away districts, but now it is easier to enter the champions at home than those who will answer the call for the clerk of the course in San Francisco.

The East has not sent its best team. Many men who could win firsts, seconds and thirds did not make the long trip, due to business. So we from the East, will, as a team, be fighting against numbers, but I think we can hold our own. In our small party of ten men I believe we have stored up forty-eight points, which takes in seven firsts, three seconds and two thirds.

There will also be several other good men from the East, including Taber, Platt, Adams, Higgins, Lincoln, Burak, Oler and Kyronen, who are sure of winning firsts and seconds, which will bring our score up to a good total.

Baseball Notes

TY COBB HASN'T LOOKED VERY like himself on this trip. Thus far he's batting only .373, and when the Peach is going that slow he looms up mighty placid.

JUST THE SAME, IT CANNOT BE said that Ty is in a slump. The merry Michiganders have rallied thirteen runs in the three series. Ty has been directly responsible for five of them—driving in two on hits, one on a sacrifice spiral, one on a nawsty little roller to Gainer, and in the Foster show his great speed in negotiating the 360-feet circuit netted him the lone tally.

DUFFY LEWIS HAS A SORE EL-bow. That's the reason he laid off yesterday. Janvrin went in because Scott is in a stickin' slump and Skipper Bill believes Childs Harold is more serviceable to the club right now.

THAT WAS GLORIOUS NEWS from New York—the Yankees getting to "Red" Faber for three runs in the blow-off session and nosing out the White Sox. Hence, the Rowlands remain a fraction over a game to the rear of the Red Sox. By the way, the Tigers are so close to the Rowlands they can slip into second place by nightfall should today's results be the same as yesterday's.

THE Phillies are blowing. Here's Alexander the Mighty losing three games in less than a week. Mayer, too, is on the downhill. The Cubs gave Sammy's pellets a pretty punching in Chicago yesterday. "Kid" Schulte inserted a homer and a double in the pinch and these are the blows that counted the most.

THE Cubs, considering their man-aged state, are holding on very finely. Saier stays out and so does Roger B.

THE Dodgers, after losing four games in two playing days, finally won. Pfeffer had to apply the brush in order to give the clan of Robbie a win.

THE New York Nines made the hap-piest of reading. The renowned "Red" Faber blew up in the ninth, after handing out eight goose eggs, and in a jiffy the despised Yankees turned defeat into victory. The black mark, though, goes to Scott. He went in with the score tied and his wild pitch settled the scrap.

WALTER JOHNSON has been under the big tent exactly eight years. He celebrated the anniversary yesterday and put the Browns to rout.

WILLIE, the kid outfielder Lee Fohl is trying out, was a Cardinal under Roger Bresnahan. The kid is fast and is reported to have improved a lot since holding forth in the A. A.

TWO GALA CARDS OF SPEED RACING

Rain again forced the postponement of the 25-mile motor-paced race at the Revere Cycle Track last night. The contest will be ridden tonight, starting at 8:30 o'clock. The rain checks distributed Saturday night still hold good.

Clarence Carman and Leon Didier, both of whom were injured within the past three weeks, will make their reappearance at the beach oval tomorrow night in a 25-mile motor-paced race. Didier, who did so well in the championship contest, will be the third man in the mid-week feature.

Both Carman and Didier have entirely recovered from the injuries. Carman is the most disappointed man in the racing world because he lost the National championship title, although he has nothing but praise for George Wiley, the winner. At the same time he is anxious for another meeting with the new champion.

With speed merchants like Didier and Carman in the race tomorrow evening's contest is bound to furnish some thrilling riding. No two men can cut out a faster pace over the short route than this pair, while Collins made such a good showing against Wiley that he, too, must be considered in the running.

There will be a special open tandem race on tomorrow night's card, as well as the regular list of amateur and professional events.

Packey and Gibbons Agree on All Terms

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—It is now regarded as a sure thing that Packey McFarland and Mike Gibbons, recently credited with being the two leading boxers in the world, will meet in the Brighton Beach arena on the night of September 11.

After an all-day session in the Planters' Hotel, Gibbons agreed to take $15,000 for his end, without the privilege of a percentage. McFarland previously had accepted an offer of $17,500. All that remains is the formal signing of articles, which will take place today or tomorrow.

All records for financing a limited round battle were broken by the promoters. The club stands pledged to pay out $32,500 cash to the principals, and in order to stage the battle additional expenses of $10,000 to $15,000 will be necessary.

New York Y. C. Boats Start for Newport

NEW LONDON, Aug. 3.—The 200 yachts participating in the annual cruise of the New York Yacht Club left here this morning for the run to Newport.

There were more large steam yachts and auxiliaries in the squadron than in any cruise of recent years. While the different racing classes have filled the satisfaction of the regatta committee, interest in the port races is increased by the presence of the Resolute and Vanitie. These boats alone are to sail in out-and-out racing trim.

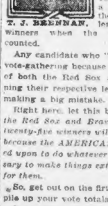
Roxbury Ball Fan Out for Place in World's Series



T. J. BRENNAN, "Jerry" will be the winners when the final votes are counted.

With the finish, last Saturday, of the first half of the AMERICAN'S Baseball Contest, the candidates are beginning to realize there's no time to lose if they intend to be aboard the 1916 LUXE Pullman train when it leaves Boston en route for the original cities where the 1915 championship games will be played.

The majority of the candidates are now mindful of the fact that the Grand Opera House is to be withdrawn from the burlesque field.

Any candidate who "slacks up" in his vote-gathering because of the possibility of both the Red Sox and Braves winning their respective league pennants is making a big mistake.

Right here let this be made plain—if the Red Sox and Braves both win, the twenty-five winners will have no regrets, because the AMERICAN can be depended upon to do whatever may seem necessary to make things extremely attractive for them.

So, get out on the firing line, fans, and pile up your vote totals.

Remember, there are twenty-five awards in all—each exactly alike—and there is absolutely no excuse for any live fan failing to land among the winners if he will but "hustle" for the next few weeks.

That the twenty-five winners will be the most envied fans in New England in an absolutely certain proposition, because the Boston AMERICAN shall see to it that for every moment of effort required of the candidates they shall be amply repaid in enjoyment and pleasure when the battle of votes is ended.

One of the "live ones" not worrying about where the games are to be played is Timothy J. Brennan of No. 7 Dennis street, Boston. He says: "My big job is to land among the winners at the finish. The AMERICAN can be relied upon to make the winners happy."

TUOHEY LEARNS GOTCH NO. PIKER

Whether Frank Gotch will, or won't, return to active competition on the mat this season depends upon whether the promoters at Omaha can see their way clear to give the world's champion $35,000 for his share to meet Joe Stecher in that city Labor Day. This was the news made public today by Jerry Tuohey, who has been working hard to get the champion to meet some high-grade man here within the next few months.

"I am prepared to bid as high as any man in the East for Gotch's services," said Tuohey. "But this figure is rather a staggerer. A match between Gotch and Stecher in Omaha is easily worth that amount, and, with any kind of luck, the promoters can afford to give it. Stecher is a wonderful boy, and, in the tremendous following among the farmers of Nebraska, will pull tremendously against anybody. I am now waiting the outcome of negotiations."

The season in Boston will open August 19 at the Howard, the change being due to the fact that the Grand Tuohey verifies the news that Mahmout, the Bulgarian wrestler, is alive and will return to America this Fall.

"I have known this for the past year," added Tuohey, "but we lost trace of him in Holland June 28, when he was matched to meet Jimmy Esson, the giant Scotchman. The beginning of the war, however, caused a change in Mahmout's plans, and he returned home."

Church Now Picked to Win Tournament

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—With W. M. Johnson out of the way, G. M. Church of Princeton is today the favorite to win the tennis tournament at Lake Forrest. Heath Byford of Chicago upset all predictions by defeating Johnson, 3—6, 7—5, 6—4. Church had little trouble defeating J. D. Bowan of Chicago, 6—1, in the second round, to which he moved through a default.

J. J. Armstrong, St. Paul, easily won from H. F. Logan, Chicago, 6—2, 6—2. It was decided to postpone two men's matches. A few matches, all between local teams, were recorded in the men's doubles.

SIDELIGHTS on SPORTS By A·H·C·Mitchell

The Shriners brought the National Band of Boston to Fenway Park with them and the able musicians made a hit with the crowd by playing a program of old-time classics, instead of the usual ragtime melodies with song-booster accompaniment.

At the close of the Red Sox preliminary practice the band played a verse of "Onward Christian Soldiers," and when the Tigers, with Hugh Jennings at their head, took the field for practice the band played the second verse, which, if Sunday school memories do not play me false, starts off like this.

"See the mighty host advancing Satan leading on."

Hugh didn't seem to take offense. It was probably over his head, or, maybe, he never went to Sunday school.

A solid mahogany clock was the gift of the Aleppo Temple Shriners to President Joseph J. Lannin of the Red Sox. The presentation was made by Walter H. Morrison.

A diamond-studded pin of the order was presented to Ty Cobb of the Tigers and to Tris Speaker and Larry Gardner of the Red Sox. All three players, together with President Lannin, wish to publicly express their thanks to all the members of the Aleppo Temple.

Cobb belongs to Moslem Temple, Detroit, and Gardner to Mt. Sinai Temple, Montpelier, Vt.

Ty picked up a little on his base hits yesterday, but on the whole his Boston engagement hasn't won him many medals. "Dutch" Leonard seems to have his number. Ty makes an occasional feul of "Dutch," but that's about all. Three times in this series "Dutch" has made him fan the air—twice yesterday and twice last Friday.

But Ty got in one of his old-time clouts when he pushed the ball to the left field fence for three bags in the opening round. He had just been presented with a diamond pin by the Shriners. Usually the recipient of a gift on his ball field does not hit. It isn't exactly built that way. Next time he is presented with a slug-off Collins and the two hits drove in two runs.

Also he made a fine catch of Speaker's drive in the first inning

It is pretty generally agreed that we have had enough rain to last us the rest of the season; at least during baseball hours. There was a gentle shower at 3 o'clock, which probably cut the attendance, but at that, more than 11,000 saw the game.

The Tigers have drawn five crowds—12,646 on Friday, 15,418 on Saturday, and 11,014 on Monday, a total of 44,963 for three days.

A short time ago a question came to this office from someone connected with the United States navy at Newport, R. I. The letter has been mislaid but it asked the greatest number of strikeouts in a game ever made by Nap Rucker. Here is the answer and it may reach the eyes of the man who asked the question:

In 1908 Rucker struck out sixteen men in a game between Brooklyn and St. Louis. Brooklyn won the game, 1 to 0.

"THE GODDESS"

By GOUVERNEUR MORRIS and CHARLES W. GODDARD

By Gouverneur Morris and Charles W. Goddard

Copyright, 1915, by Star Company.

TOMMY proceeded at a dog trot—not a run exactly, but that gait, a little faster than a walk, that makes the least demand upon the wind and muscles. He kept this up, with occasional lapses into fast walking, until the moon set.

"They must have had a tremendous start of me," he thought, "or else," and his heart sank, "they're gone some other way." He paused abruptly and hesitated. "Why," he thought, "he wouldn't make the poor child take this long tramp again without a good rest.

"Even if don't like it any too well, and I'm as strong as a horse. He's probably taken her somewhere just out of earshot of the cave; he may know of some shelter, and I've been getting farther and farther from her instead of nearer to her."

Still Tommy could not make up his mind to go back to the cave. Nothing was sure. If Stilliter was somewhere ahead with Celestia, and Tommy gave up following, the game was up. If they were merely resting near the cave, they would be coming along in the morning, and he could ambush them somewhere along the trail. And he hurried on as best he could in the darkness.

His own car was as he had left it. Stilliter's was standing just behind it. The driver had wrapped himself in a lap-robe and was sound asleep in the tonneau.

Also in the tonneau was a good sized wicker picnic basket, which an examination proved to be well stocked with sandwiches, cold chicken and patent bottles containing hot coffee and soup.

Tommy carried the basket into the woods without asking permission of the sleeping chauffeur and ate a square meal. He had not until now realized how hungry and thirsty and tired he was. The choicest provisions in the basket he put aside for Celestia.

"If I am hungry and tired," he sought, "think what she must be! but I suppose Stilliter tells her that she's just had a square meal and she believes the dog, but that isn't last forever."

Having eaten, Tommy rested for alf an hour, took up the basket, and once more hit the trail. But now he went slowly and stopped often to rest. He had seldom been so tired in his life, and only an overmastering love and anxiety for Celestia kept him going.

It was no longer night. It wasn't yet dawn; but that lovely interval between, when, in what appears to be pitch darkness, things become suddenly visible. Tommy stumbled on, shifting the heavy basket frequently from hand to hand.

As it got to be broad day, he was careful to make no noise. At any moment now he might hear sounds of Stilliter and Celestia approaching.

If he could have looked through the woods and cleared away the trees by some sort of necromancy he would have seen Celestia opening her eyes and Freddie the Ferret, who had kept his guard all night, as we have said, breathing a sigh of relief—this kind of thing was so out of his line that he did not quite realize how much of a hero he really was.

Celestia lost no time in thanking him, though she was still dazed and acted strangely.

Tommy could not know all this however, and he was torn between fear of finding Celestia harmed and hope that Freddie had gotten her out of the Professor's clutches. The empty autos seemed to tell an eloquent story, but, then, at least they assured him that Stilliter had not carried off the Goddess.

Freddie about this time took Celestia by the hand and insisted that she come with him. In her queer condition she did not seem to mind, and Freddie was fet to his own devices in an effort to discover the way to the cave.

They walked a long time—Freddie trying his best to make the path as easy as possible for his companion, but in spite of his attempts her face was often hit by low boughs, for Freddie was no woodsman and lacked the craft which leads the Indian along the line of least resistance.

Freddie was beginning to feel the pangs of hunger—he wished himself back on the East Side where he knew his way with his eyes shut. Yet so great was his admiration for Celestia and Tommy that he actually forgot himself for once and tried to think of some way by which he could hit on the proper direction in this maze of forest and tangles.

"Are you tired?" he asked Celestia after they had been going for half an hour and apparently making little progress.

She shook her head. "I must go where the driver tells me," she said, in a toneless voice.

Then it was that Freddie laughed—he laughed to think that he had settled Stilliter, and he laughed to think what the professor would do when he opened his case and found his other glasses missing.

All of which was not very charitable, but, then, Stilliter himself did not deserve pity, and Freddie had done a greater service for Celestia and Tommy than they could ever repay him for, though he didn't know it then.

After still further wanderings Freddie determined to give up the search. He motioned Celestia to sit on a mossy bank under a huge tree, and then he walked about her looking through the forest in this direction and that and trying in his crude way to make up his mind what to do.

It was a most difficult problem, and the one thing that gave momentum to it was the craving for food. Freddie was nonplussed.

"We got to get out of here," he said, scratching his head, and Celestia nodded as she looked helplessly at him.

Why I Married a Second Time

The Man Who Took a Chance Tells His Story.

By DOROTHY DIX.

"WHY did I marry the second time?" repeated the Man with the Cynical Smile. Because I am a gambler at life. Because I am an optimist in philosophy and a plunger in business, and I took a second chance at happiness.

"Heaven knows my first matrimonial venture was disastrous enough. I married one of those women who seem made for the undoing of men, a beautiful, fair, starry-eyed young creature, who looked as soft and fresh, and tender as a June rose, but who was as hard and petrified within as a piece of New England granite.

"I was young, romantic, with my head filled with visions of what life would be with a wife at my side who answered to my every ideal of mind and soul. I waked up from my dream to find out I was tied to a woman who regarded matrimony merely as a meal ticket, and a husband as a sort of human cash register to be worked for all she could get out of him.

"That wasn't enough to satisfy her, or make the game interesting in those days, for I was just getting a start in business and money was none too plentiful. In consequence our married life was as good an understudy of an earthly purgatory as you could wish to see. I, nervous, overworked, overwrought, fighting desperately and futilely against my wife's mad extravagance and the flood of bills that were always threatening to overwhelm me, and drag me down into ruin. She, frivolous because she could not have the jewels and clothes and motors, and trips that she saw other women have, always reproaching me and flinging in my face the bitter accusation that I did not succeed as well as some other men did.

GLAD WHEN IT ENDED

"At last it ended, as such a marriage was bound to end, in divorce. She found an old millionaire and she befooled with her soft baby face as she had befooled me, and I thanked God for my deliverance when she went to Reno to get a divorce from me upon the trumped up charge of cruel and inhuman treatment, though the only cruel and inhuman treatment I had ever inflicted upon her was my failure to supply her with all the money she desired.

"There are many faults that a man can forgive a woman, but the one thing that strips the last vestige of glamor from about her is to find her sordid, to realize that the only thing she cares for is what she can get out of him. I had had a bitter lesson in feminine cupidity, and so for a long time after my wife left me I saw in woman only the vampire, a loathsome creature who sucks the very life blood out of a man, and then, when she has left him worthless, passes on to another victim.

"But after awhile I got a saner point of view. I said to myself that because one apple on a tree was rotten it did not prove that all apples were bad, and because I had had the misfortune to marry one woman with the soul of a money grubber, did not prove all women were mere bundles of selfishness and avarice.

"Moreover, I am, as I said, a gambler by nature and so I determined not to drop out of the matrimonial game because I had lost out at my first throw, but to put down my last coin on the table and to call for a new shuffle and deal of the cards.

"Risky, of course, but of one thing I was sure, and that was that nothing could be as bad as what I had been through, and I had the loser's desperate faith that luck was bound to change, and that fate must relent and be kind to me at last. Also I had that strange feeling of baffled happiness, of being denied something that was my right, of being cheated out of something that was my due, that those who have made miserable marriages always have.

"Old bachelors look on even the most congenial marriages and the happiest homes without a pang of envy or desire, but we whose marriages have been failures are eaten up with the sense of what we have missed when we behold a man and woman being to each other what God intended they should be.

WHY HE TRIED AGAIN

"The light of household fires never shines so brightly as to the eyes of those whose own fires upon the hearth have gone out. Home never seems so dear as to those who have tried to make a home and found it in ruins about them. No arms are so empty as those that have been stretched out to the little children that never came to them. No heart ever aches so for companionship as that which has held a once dear head upon it that has gone. It is the urge of what you have loved and lost, of what you have striven for and failed to get, that sends the unhappily married back once more to risk the storms of matrimony again.

"In the face of that longing, of that desperate need, of that determination to wrest happiness from life at last, of what avail are even the warnings of one's own experience? One knows the danger, but one dares it. It is the great adventure and strangely enough, just because one has failed the first time, he is sure he cannot fail the second, and so with his fingers crossed, and his rabbit's foot in his pocket, he marches the second time up to the altar.

"And generally his gambler's superstition is justified and his luck does change, and his second marriage is a success."

The man with the cynical smile paused and lit a cigarette. "Doctor Johnson said it" he added. "You remember, he said that every second marriage was the triumph of hope over experience. As a diagnosis of the psychology of the second marriage that cannot be beaten—or amplified."

Why Fleshy People Suffer from Skin Troubles

Fleshy people are often affected by itching and irritation of the skin, caused by perspiration and chafing, which frequently develops into eczema or other skin troubles, and, if neglected, may become chronic. It matters not how long you have suffered or what kind of skin trouble you have, Cadum ointment will give relief. It has proved a blessing to many who have suffered for years from distressing, stubborn and disfiguring skin diseases. Cadum contains an extract from the tree Juniperus Oxycedrus, which has a most soothing and healing effect wherever the skin is inflamed, irritated or diseased. Cadum ointment is for eczema, pimples, sores, eruptions, rashes, scaly skin, itching piles, chafings, etc. 10c. & 25c. per box—Advertisement.

MAIDEN MEDITATIONS

Protest all you like—but you'll have to take men and women as you find them. There isn't time to build them over even if you had the ability.

* * *

A fairly good rule for success is, not to hope for the best—but to take it.

Says Emerson:

"Most of your ills you have cured.
And the sharpest you still have survived;
But what torments of grief you endured
From evils that never arrived!"

Even if the view from your window seems largely composed of an ash can, an unpainted fire escape and a court littered with torn papers, you can probably include the sky in your landscape if you will just lift your eyes a bit.

Don't let circumstances conquer you. There is a premium on bravery, and it is something to win a prize even if you have no special use for it.

The Mysteries of Migration

Why Do Millions of Birds Spend Half the Year North and Half South?

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

THE bird is an older inhabitant than man on earth, and could tell us many things about the history of our globe of which we have only an inferential knowledge. Bird migration—one of the most impenetrable mysteries of terrestrial life—may be a direct result of the invasion of ice in the glacial ages.

When the bobolink, for instance, quits the New England fields with the oncoming of Autumn and goes to South America to pass the Winter, or rather not lose it in Summer, he is obeying an impulse come down to him through generations of his ancestors from the time when their original northern home began to lose its permanently genial climate. Such, at least, is one of the most suggestive theories invented to explain bird migration.

As the ice gradually pushed farther and farther southward, its advance ebbs swung back and forth with the seasons, and the birds acquired a habit of retiring and returning in a similar swing. Finally they were driven entirely from their old northern haunts. But with the end of the last glacial period the favorable conditions returned in the lands from which they had been expelled, and they resumed possession. But then the habit of seasonal migration had become so fixed that it was permanently retained, even in cases where it might have been abandoned, and the discovery having been made, under compulsion as it were, that Summer conditions can always be obtained by passing to and fro across the equator, this became the settled custom of many species of birds, whose solo home had once been in the north.

A diametrically opposite theory assumes that the original home was in the south, but in either cases the glacial periods are regarded as having furnished the motive for migration.

The results of the most extensive study of bird migration that has yet been made are embodied in a recent bulletin of the Biological Survey of the Department of Agriculture. The phenomenon of migration would be more spectacular and better known if most of the birds did not confine their flight to the night hours. When nearly all the world around them is asleep they fly silently for hours through the darkness. One of the most remarkable conclusions of the Biological Bureau is that migrating birds pay no attention to the weather in choosing the time of their departure. The impulse seems to come from within and to be due to physiological causes related to the period of breeding.

Few birds put themselves to high speed during the migration flight. They go such moderate distances as twenty, thirty, forty miles a day, making many side excursions for food which increase the actual space traversed. But some species make long-continued and rapid flights. Some make the trip across the Gulf of Mexico, varying in distance, according to the route, from 500 to 700 miles, in a single trip. The purple martin is said to average 120 miles every night in its Spring trip from Texas to Winnipeg.

But whether they travel fast or slow many birds cover thousands of miles in each migration, north or south. The brilliant scarlet tanager spends half the year in the United States and Canada, and the other half in Peru. More than a hundred species of birds seen in the United States in Summer go to Central and South America for the Winter. Many go as far as Argentina, and a few as far as Patagonia.

Black-poll warblers whose breeding nests are in Alaska spend the Winter in the northern part of South America, 5,000 miles away. Some of the night-hawks Summer in Alaska and Winter in Argentina, 7,000 miles apart.

A curious fact arising from the location of its home within the polar circles, is that, as W. W. Cooke, the author of the Bulletin above referred to, says: "The Arctic tern has more hours of daylight and sunlight than any other animal on the globe. At the northernmost nesting site the midnight sun has already appeared before the bird's arrival, and it never sets during their entire stay at the breeding grounds. On the other hand, during two months of their sojourn in the Antarctic the birds do not see a sunset, and the part of the time the sun dips only a little way below the horizon and broad daylight is continuous. The birds therefore have twenty-four hours of daylight for at least eight months, and during the four months they have considerably more daylight than darkness."

The longest continuous flight is said to be performed by the golden plover, which crosses from Nova Scotia to South America, a distance of 2,400 miles, in a straight line. In foul weather they sometimes make a halt at Bermuda or in the Antilles, but if the weather is fair they do not stop at all until they reach the mainland of South America. On the Pacific side of the continent the golden plover makes a continuous flight of 2,000 miles from Alaska to Hawaii, and naturalists wonder how they manage to strike so small a mark in the midst of the greatest of oceans.

This Will Remove Hair or Fuzzy Growths

(Toilet Tips)

A safe, certain method for ridding the skin of ugly, hairy growths is as follows: Mix a paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface about 2 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is entirely harmless and seldom requires repeating, but to avoid disappointment it is advisable to see that you get genuine delatone. —Advertisement.

Playing Nurse to Grievances

Easy to Make Mountains of Molehills and Wreck Happiness Thereby

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"A GRIEVANCE will grow in any kind of weather, provided it is fed upon imagination."

Most of us pride ourselves on being sensitive; few of us are willing to acknowledge that we are quarrelsome. And yet the step from being proud and easily offended to being exacting and disagreeable about it does not require seven-league boots.

One's dignity is never lowered by being willing to take for granted the idea that other people are fairly kind, loath to hurt feelings and fairly square and honest in their attitude.

The nursing of grievances is one of the failings to which women are particularly prone. The woman who denies emphatically that she is a pugnacious person who looks for trouble will tell you with a splendid affectation of superior fine feeling that she is "so sensitive."

Over-sensitiveness means selfish self-love. Very few of us are sensitive about other's feelings, though however carefully we guard our own.

All too often we sacrifice friendships to our own "sensitive inability to understand." "The little rift within the lute of love" is frequently broken by a sensitive willingness to make a grievance out of a trifle.

All of us know that if you are looking for trouble it will be easy to find it. Few of us recognize that having found a wee trouble we are very likely to mull over and over it until we have magnified it to fairly unbelievable proportions.

I once knew a girl who was sincerely in love with a man who loved her. Business called him out of town, and he made an engagement with her to phone him at 1 o'clock on the day of his return. The girl waited from 1 to 2, was met by no anxious lover, and departed in high dudgeon. The man arriving on a delayed Western train put in his appearance at 2:30. This little incident served to break an engagement!

The man was aggrieved because the girl had not given him the benefit of the doubt, and waited. He nursed this grievance, brooded over it, and added imagined situations to it until he had transmuted his sweetheart into an exacting, suspicious woman who wouldn't give him the benefit of the doubt, and consequently didn't love him.

The girl began to imagine how easy it would have been for the man to get off at some way station and send her a telegram—she thought how he might have been detained from the station at the moment of his arrival. She decided that he was a selfish brute who didn't understand women and who would probably make her miserable through utter lack of consideration. And out of her imagination she evolved a man who was naturally inconsiderate of her, since he didn't really love her.

Out of practically any set of circumstances an equally and misunderstanding may be evolved by any one, who instead of bearing and forbearing proceeds to take the martyred attitude of one who is called on to endure so much.

Grievances generally are little weeds which might very advantageously be rooted up and left to perish. But with a little cultivation on the part of imagination, a little watering of tears, and a little fertilization from aloneness feelings, they sprout into fine crops of misery.

What we will do with our grievances is a matter for us to decide. I suggest rooting them all up and flinging them aside. There ought to be no room for them in the garden of any fine soul.

Do You Know That—

Benjamin Franklin wrote from Passy, in 1781, a letter to M. Dumas, in which he said: "If you just received a 14,5,6,16,28,2,76,803,60,1,13, 273,50,14, joining 76,6,42,45,14,15,424, 223,12,20,59,540,11,150,23,56,3,201,653, 20,675,85,79,50,63,44,22,219,17,80,29,147, 136,41, but this it not likely to afford you much pleasure." 176,373,309, 4,108,40,19,97,309,17,85,90,201,100,617." This puzzle has never been deciphered.

Discolored or Spotty Skin Easily Peeled Off

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which sensitive skins are subject at this season may readily be gotten rid of. Mercolized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the discolored skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any druggist's. There's no more effective way of banishing tan, freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process itself doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and one quickly acquires a brand new, spotless, prettily beautiful face.

Wrinkles caused by weather, worry or illness are best treated by a simple solution of powdered saxolite, 1 oz., dissolved in ½ pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in this produces a truly marvelous transformation.—Advertisement.

A Foe to Tuberculosis

The Journal of the American Medical Association (August 9, 1913), reviewing an article on "The Influence of Calcium Salts on Constitution and Health," said: "They (the authors) report numbers of concrete instances in which patients have gained in vitality and energy after taking calcium."

Doctors agree that in tuberculous lowered vitality and lost energy must be overcome.

One of the constituents of Eckman's Alterative is calcium (lime), in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person. To this, in part, is due its success in the treatment of tuberculosis—a success which even some ethical practitioners have acknowledged to their patients. We make no curative claims for it, but since it is obtainable at druggists, and is a tasteless, iron-containing tonic, sold by all Riker Drug Stores and leading druggists.

SOMERVILLE LADY CLAIMS IT IS GRAND

Mrs. Anna Smith of No. 1 Washington Street Speaks from Experience.

Plant Juice, the new herbal system tonic, has been introduced into a number of great American cities, and everywhere it has met with tremendous success. Plant Juice is purely an herbal preparation of roots, barks and the finest ever produced. Once the public of any town in this country learns its merit, and a great demand for it follows. It is particularly a tonic for city people, where modern modes and customs of life lead to various forms of debility, to nervous, stomach, blood and kidney troubles, in fact, to a general "run down" condition. Plant Juice tones up an almost any other tonic. It gives immediate relief and lasting results. All forms of stomach, liver and kidney trouble and blood disorders are relieved by Plant Juice. It is a great specific for debility and organic weakness, and will make you feel fine. It is sure to bring a return of buoyant spirits, of comfortable and of good health.

Selecting at random from a mass of written testimonials is that of Mrs. Anna Smith, who resides at No. 1 Washington St., Somerville, where she has lived for the past 15 years, and is a well known lady there. She said:

"I have suffered from rheumatism in my limbs for over two years. They would swell up and cause me a great deal of pain from the hip down, so that I felt tired and I could hardly walk. I also had stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia for years. After eating I would have to go and lie down. At times I was not sure of my stomach. My food fermented, causing gas, with bloating, belching and pains all over my body. I could get very little sleep, a great deal I made and was not able to do my housework. I had taken many different kinds of medicine, but got no benefit. I have taken Plant Juice for two weeks, and now have a fine appetite, sleep well, have no more aches or pains, my rheumatism is all gone, and I am able to do my own work and family washing. It is a grand medicine."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Store, corner of Washington and Avon streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

BANQUET TALKS OF NEW HAVEN MEN CENSORED

New Haven directors could not even attend a dinner and respond to a toast without having their remarks censored beforehand, according to the bill of particulars, which has just been furnished by the government, in response to a request from the directors who are under indictment on account of an alleged conspiracy to monopolize transportation. That Robbins, ex-Mayor of New Haven, was counsel for the New Haven, transferred his wife certain shares of stock that formed a part of the proceeds of the Metropolitan transaction. That Robbins, as counsel, received and deposited checks for $295,000 in various banks, for alone being a further part of the Metropolitan proceeds. That Robbins was a party to the request to Colonel, the assets, books, papers and records of the Hartford Company, from which the New Haven carried out its Boston & Maine deal. TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks ruled strong today from opening to afternoon, when the majority showed gains, but not a large average advance. Rails were higher with few exceptions. Sixty-seven of the principal ones have reported good gains in revenues per mile for June to the Interstate Commerce Commission. This shows the country's trade is improving in general.

Among last hour gains in New York were Inspiration 1⅜, American Smelting ½, Allis Chalmers 2⅛, U. S. Steel ½, American Locomotive 1⅛, Baldwin ⅝, Bethlehem 11⅜, Crucible ⅝, Republic Iron I, Goodrich ⅝, General Motors ⅛, Air Brake 1⅜, Car Foundry 1⅛, Westinghouse ⅜, Mexican Petroleum 4, Rock Island 2⅛, Union Pacific ⅝, St. Paul ⅛, Southern Pacific ⅜, Reading ⅛, Northern Pacific ⅜, New York Central 1⅛, Missouri Pacific ⅝, Lehigh Valley ⅝, Chesapeake & Ohio ¾, and Baltimore & Ohio ⅛. The list was then below its high for the day and ranged lower near the close. Among declines were American Can ⅝, Utah Copper ⅜, Amalgamated ⅜, Atchison ¼, New Haven ¼ and Studebaker 2⅜. The last named stock was weak all day.

Boston gains included Alloues ¼, Chevenet & Arizona ⅛, Copper Range ⅛, Granby ¼, Greene-Cananea 1, American Zinc ¼ and New Haven ¼. Butte & Superior was off ½, Alaska Gold ¼, Tamarack 1⅝, United Fruit ⅛, Shoe Machinery ¼ and Boston & Maine ⅛.

WAR STOCKS MORE ACTIVE.

War order issues became more active, although long the market leaders, than for several days, at the opening in New York, and a number made large gains. Bethlehem touched its highest record price, during the morning. Air Brake attained a new high. Petroleum was strong and higher. U. S. Steel sold at its highest price within a year. There was good demand for railways and equipments. Buying of the former was Western to a considerable extent. The market held at a higher level all the morning, around noontime there was more profit-taking and a little reaction, and later a partial recovery. As regards war stocks, it seems as if there will be a great demand for munitions for months to come, and that they will hold speculative interest for an indefinite period. Industrial corporations of this class are making big profits. Bethlehem is estimated to be earning at present at the rate of $25,000 a year. Union Pacific announced upon publication of June earnings, it showing an increase of $1,220 in net. Trading was very active during the first hour, but the market became comparatively quiet afterwards. Odd lot business was a substantial feature. One observer was of the opinion that the public is in a buying mood.

BETTER TONE TO COPPERS.

There was a little better tone to coppers in Boston, where the market was firm at the start, but not active. Prices were strong most of the time. It is said big consumers of copper in this part of the country are now in the market for electrolyte as low as 18 cent a pound without buying much, but they are expected to come into the market if pending orders for their products are closed. In London spot copper and futures were up £1 6s. and electrolytic was off 10s. Lead was up 2s. 6d and spelter was £1 lower. In this country neither lead nor spelter are quite as much in demand. In the last half of July the visible foreign supply of copper increased 567 tons. The Boston & Maine reports for the year ended with June a decrease of $1,716,279 in its deficit. Today deposits of the Old Colony Trust Company totalled $162,253,906, the most on record.

LANGAN ONE OF GAMEST FIGHTERS, SAYS WILLARD

By JESS WILLARD.

(Copyright 1915, by A. Merritt, All Rights Reserved.)

THEY can sing all their songs about brave Dan Donnelly, but when it comes to giving a medal on the gamest Irish fighter that ever stepped into the ring, I want to name Jack Langan.

He didn't stand six feet over five feet nine inches, and he never weighed more than 178 pounds, but he fought two tremendous battles with Jem Mace in addition to the championship of England, and the British giant was lucky to win.

Jack Langan, from all I can read about him, was the sort of man that I want my boys to be. He never picked a quarrel in his life and he never backed away from a fight. Some of his most terrific bouts and tumble battles were in the defence of women and children, and even dumb animals that were being mistreated.

He never entered a ring except with a smile on his face. He never lost his temper and, whether he won or lost, crowds cheered him and the other fellow took him for a handshake. He was as game a man as a die and one of the bravest men that ever lived.

I can't see for the life of me why the Irish have passed over Jack Langan in favor of an idol of Donnelly. He fought ten fights to Donnelly's one and was away weight and height in all of them.

As a boy of thirteen Langan went to Sir Jem Mace's home and heard and learned what it was to fight. He made the bully built up some fighters and inside of two years he was at the top of the amateur bunch. Nobody could be found to fight with Langan and the lad who hit like the devil was in demand.

By the time he was seventeen Jack was meeting grown men and putting them away without much trouble. His fight with a burly fellow named Shanlies had a funny feature to it. The night before the battle a friend took young Jack around to see Sir Daniel Donnelly and asked him to give the lad some tips on training.

"Training, is it?" said Sir Daniel. "Sure, I never trained myself much much about that training. But I'm willing at all times to help a good boy." First of all, you must take off your shirt, Jack Langan, and walk up and down the room briskly, and hit out well with both hands as if you intended giving your opponent a terrific punishment, asking for his nightcap. Jump backwards and forwards a hundred times at least.

"Never, Jack," said Sir Dan, "do this till your tongue hangs out. Then drink a half-gallon of the clearest buttermilk you can find. At 5 o'clock in the morning get up and run five or four miles."

Jack's admiration for Sir Daniel was so great that he couldn't wait until the next day to get started the training. He began that night. It was midnight before he got home, but he took off his shirt, hit out a while and then jumped backwards and forwards a hundred times.

After that he hustled around the neighborhood and nearly got in fights with all the neighbors for making them to see if he had any buttermilk. After an hour's sleep he got up at five and started out to run three or four miles.

The time for the fight was 6 o'clock, but Jack didn't finish his run until 6:30. Shanlies and his friends were leaving the ground when Jack came staggering up. He was nearly dead from exhaustion, and Shanlies had all the best of it for four rounds.

"You've met your master, Jack," howled the crowd.

"Be slay," said Langan. "I've trained by the advice of Dan Donnelly, and the divil himself can't bate me."

Summoning all his strength he landed a right swing on Shanlies's head and sent him down for keeps.

Jack's next battle was with Pat Halton, who was called "Donnelly's Boy." Sir Daniel thought that Halton couldn't be beat, but after one hour of desperate fighting in the rain Halton was knocked senseless. The crowd broke into the ring and gave Halton a chance to come to, but Dan Donnelly insisted that his boy wasn't licked and refused to let any stakeholders pay over the money to Langan.

Jack met Sir Daniel shortly after this in the Cockpit and the youngster demanded his money. Donnelly answered angrily, but the boy came back at him with his fighting fists.

"I know, Dan—no, I don't know, anything—but I think you can beat me. But I'll bet that you can't beat me inside half an hour an' we'll go at it right now."

Donnelly was so struck with the lad's grameen that he turned over the money. In a year, Langan fought ten battles and had whipped every fighter in Ireland except the great Sir Daniel. And then along came a expedition to South America and away went Langan to help in some sort of fight for liberty.

For three years he suffered and fought in a strange land. Most of the expedition died from exposure, but Langan's wonderful constitution carried him through and let him live to see Dublin again. When he returned to Ireland in 1832, Donnelly had been dead for two years and there was no one about able to give Langan a fight for the championship. So he decided to see what the English boys could do with their best.

To test his mettle, the English fancy tried Jack out on Jem Mannester man named Vinond, a husky second-rater who had just missed getting into the championship ranks. He was much bigger than the Irishman, but Jack nearly killed him in eight rounds.

Nothing would do Jack now but that he should fight the champion, Tom Spring. Friends tried to have him pick smaller game, but only as Spring the most scientific man in the ring, but he was six foot tall and weighed two hundred pounds.

The match was finally arranged for 1,500 a side—the winner to take it all—and the fight took place at Worcester on January 7, 1824. Over 10,000 people Witnessed it. On one boat, lords and rowdies bumping elbows in the knee-deep mud.

From the first blow it was seen that Spring's advantage in height and reach was going to count for little in the ring, but he was six foot tall and weighed two hundred pounds.

The match was finally arranged for 1,500 a side—the winner to take it all—and the fight took place at Worcester on January 7, 1824. Over 10,000 people Witnessed it. On one boat, lords and rowdies bumping elbows in the knee-deep mud.

From the first blow it was seen that Spring's advantage in height and reach was going to count for little in the ring, but he was six foot tall and weighed two hundred pounds.

For seventy rounds it seemed that Langan would win. He took Spring's blows with a smile, and getting close, would fight like a demon, in round after round he drove the champion, sometimes almost putting him clean over the ropes.

"I sent you down, Tom," he grinned as he picked the champion up. "I have the right to pick you up."

In the sixty-fifth round Langan sent Spring down with a volley of rights and lefts that looked like finishers. It was all that Cribb could do to get Tom ready for the scratch, but the champion finally managed to drag himself out.

It was in the seventy-fourth round that Langan gave way. Spring gradually weighs began to tell on him. His courage was still there, but his strength was gone. Beaten and bloody, he was carried to let his seconds throw up the sponge.

The end came in the seventh round, after the men had been fighting for more than an half. Langan fell into a stupor and could not come to scratch.

There's this about such to be said about the battle, Langan, as the lighter man, needed the fight more, he could get in his footwork. He was made to fight in a ring made of boards covered with a tent cloth and then covered over with a carload of sawdust.

Another thing. During all the time that he was getting the best of the champion, the crowd pressed into the ring and frequently held up the fighting until Spring could recover. His seconds, instead of taking care of him between rounds, spent their time quarreling in an endeavor to beat back the ruffians.

Langan was convinced that he could beat the English champion. The Irish thought so, too. Spring tried to get out of the match by saying that he would not fight for less than $5,000, although he had won twice as much as he had ever named before. But the backers of Langan raised the money, only asking that the fight take place on a platform. The second fight took place on June 8, 1824, and again the gallant Irishman were down to defeat before, while the Irishman had trained himself down to toe the mark on edge. Also, in the thirty-second, his head bit against a rail, stunning him badly.

But nothing could shake the courage of Langan. Outwitched and outreached, he never for a moment thought of losing or quitting.

"Take him away," yelled the crowd in the seventeenth round. "He's done for. He's got enough punishment."

"I will never be taken away," cried Langan, springing to the scratch. "Come to me, Tom Spring, I am ready."

For the last ten rounds his seconds had to carry him up to the scratch. Once there he would raise his head with the look of an eagle, to fight away. In the seventy-sixth round he fell senseless. The crowd collected over $200 for him, and Spring gave him $50.

"You're the bravest man I've ever met," said the champion. "Jack, you and I must be friends to the ends of our lives."

It was the last fight for both Langan and Spring. The champion retired and Langan was found to have a broken shoulder that sent him out of the ring. He opened a hotel in Liverpool, and he had free beds for every wanderer from the "auld dart."

A brave fighter! A fine man! Sir Dan Donnelly may have been a wonder, but give me little Jack Langan.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

The speedway movement has reached South America. The plans are being made for the construction of a two and a half-mile track near Buenos Aires, where a syndicate of business men has been formed to back the project.

The track is to be opened in the Winter of 1916 with a 500-mile race for a purse of $100,000. Efforts will be made to induce the best drivers of Europe and America to compete.

Harry Harper, the general sales manager of the Willys-Overland Company, has been spending the last few days in this city as the guest of W. J. Cornell. Mr. Harper says never was a motor car given a greater, or more favorable, reception than that accorded the Willys-Knight, recently announced by his company. This car, 2070 B, has been tested a season all over the country, and the one thing that is troubling us is how we can secure a production equal to the demand.

WINSOR McCAY

A FEW days before the sinking of the Lusitania the German embassy at Washington caused advertisements to be printed in the newspapers warning Americans that they would risk great peril if they voyaged on a British ship passing through waters which Germany had declared to be a war zone. In a note to Germany dated March 13, President Wilson thus spoke of this warning:

"I do not refer to this for the purpose of calling the attention of the imperial government at this time to the surprising irregularity of a communication from the imperial German embassy at Washington addressed to the people of the United States through the newspapers, but really for the purpose of pointing out that NO WARNING THAT AN UNLAWFUL OR INHUMANE ACT WOULD BE COMMITTED CAN POSSIBLY BE ACCEPTED AS AN EXCUSE OR PALLIATION FOR THAT ACT, OR AS AN ABATEMENT OF THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR ITS COMMISSION."

Well and good. But the question at once naturally arises how Mr. Wilson can be so firmly insistent upon the SAFETY OF AMERICAN LIVES ON THE SEAS and so apparently unconcerned about the SAFETY OF AMERICAN LIVES UPON THE LAND.

When the belligerents in Mexico began to assassinate American men and women, Mr. Bryan, at Mr. Wilson's direction, issued a warning to all Americans then in Mexico to leave that "war zone."

Since that time Mexican belligerents have continued to assassinate American men and women, month after month, week after week, day after day.

Why are the assassinations permitted to go on without effective interference and without even effective remonstrance?

Is the country to understand that the warning to American residents in Mexico, that "unlawful and inhumane assaults might be made upon them if they remained in that country," can be possibly accepted as an excuse or palliation for the acts, or as an abatement of the responsibility for their commission?

Have Mexican belligerents the privilege peculiar to them and denied to European belligerents, of killing American men and foully abusing American women who did not, and perhaps could not, heed the warning to get out of Mexican war zones?

Why is it RIGHT to advise all Americans to abandon their property and their interests, their homes and their associations, their business and even their family connections, in Mexico, and to leave that country in order to protect their lives and prevent this country being involved in international disputes, and why is it NOT RIGHT to ask Americans to keep off English boats and thus prevent any risk of their lives and the possibility of involving their country in international disputes?

Again, if it is right—and it certainly IS RIGHT—to call Germany to account for every attack upon American property and every needless sacrifice of American lives, why is it not right to call Mexico to account for all American property which has been destroyed and for all American lives that have been ruthlessly sacrificed there?

Why does our government perform its duties with such scrupulous exactness in one case and overlook them with such complete indifference in the other case?

In the same note to Germany, Mr. Wilson uses emphatic language:

"This government * * * cannot admit the adoption of such measures or SUCH A WARNING OF DANGER TO OPERATE IN ANY DEGREE AS AN ABBREVIATION OF THE RIGHTS OF AMERICAN CITIZENS bound on lawful errands on merchant ships of belligerent nationalities."

Very well, but why, then, has such warning of danger been allowed to abbreviate the rights of American citizens pursuing their lawful errands, NOT ON THE SEAS IN BELLIGERENT SHIPS, BUT ON THE SOIL OF A NEIGHBORING TERRITORY BEING FOUGHT OVER BY BELLIGERENT ASPIRANTS TO THE RULE OF THAT TERRITORY?

Is an American citizen's life more sacred on board a British passenger ship than it is on Mexican soil?

And if it is not, why this instant show of indignation and this perilous approach to war over the deaths of the American men and women who went down with the Lusitania, and why this complacent looking on, month after month, while American men and women are cruelly and foully assaulted and butchered by Mexican assassins in uniform and without uniform?

These are not idle questions. These are not captious questions. These are proper questions.

The countrymen and country-women of these poor souls so wickedly abused and so cruelly slain have THE RIGHT TO DEMAND THAT THESE QUESTIONS BE ANSWERED.
